EDMONTON, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JUNE 2ND, 1892.

SEMI-WEEKLY, 8 PAGES.

LOCAL:

HEAVY rain to-day.

WINDY on Wednesday.

P. ERASMUS is in town from Whitefish lake.

MRS. W. L. WOOD left for the Landing last week.

The mud is awful; but remember that mud makes wheat.

The town clerk's office has been established in P. Daly's real estate office.

A. D. OSBORNE, postmaster, was taken ill of pleurisy on Tuesday evening.

FRASER & CO.'s mill is sawing steadily on the season's work of a million feet.

J. KELLY arrived on Tuesday with two rafts of lumber for Moore & Macdowall.

J. W. CLARK, piano, organ and sewing machine agent, of Calgary, is in town.

P. DALY has opened a real estate office in his building next door to Thomson's drug store.

FIRES are still burning in the Beaver Hills, but cannot spread owing to the growth of vegetation.

BISHOP REEVES, of Mackenzie river, arrived from Winnipeg on Monday's train and left for the far north on Tuesday.

W. BUCHANAN and J. Batty arrived from Victoria on Wednesday to take down a ferry scow and cable for use at that place.

THE steamer Northwest will leave Prince Albert, on June 10th, for points up the river. Her ultimate destination is not yet fixed.

THE Sturgeon water power saw and grist mill is now running, sawing lumber and chopping grain; the latter one day in each week.

THE BULLETIN has received from Thos. Ridsdale, Stony Plain, a fine bunch of cabbage plants for early planting. Mr. Ridsdale's garden is always ahead.

H. VERVAAKE and G. Vanneste, who arrived from Belgium a couple of months ago, left for home last week. They invested in a quantity of real estate before leaving.

C. VERSTRAATE, recently from Belgium, has purchased E. Brousseau's farm, St. Albert, for $3,000. This is one of the best improved farms in St. Albert settlement.

REV. J. O. STRINGER, who arrived last week, is on his way to Fort McPherson, near the mouth of the Mackenzie. He is a missionary of the C. M. S. of the Church of England.

MR. AND MRS. IRELAND, from Scotland, and Mr. Ketchen, of Halifax, arrived on Monday's train to view the Edmonton district. They were driven around on Tuesday by P. Daly, and left on Wednesday's train for the South.

THE C. P. R. will give emigrant excursion rates from the Maritime provinces to Northwest points on June 13th, 20th, 27th and July 18th. The rate from Halifax to Edmonton will be $40. Tickets good for six weeks.

At the last meeting of the W. C. T. U. a committee for visiting the sick was appointed, consisting of Mrs. Jas. McDonald, Mrs. Hardisty, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. McDougall, Mrs. Strang and Miss Robertson. The members of this committee desire that any person knowing of any cases of sickness or distress will report the same to anyone of their number, and thus aid in carrying out this branch of the work.

P. R. RITCHIE, of Essex, England, accredited delegate of a number of Scotch farmers, who have settled in that county, arrived on Thursday of last week, and was driven over the various parts of the settlement by forest ranger Johnstone. He went out on Wednesday's train, highly pleased with what he had seen, and taking with him a great deal of full and practical information. He will visit Southern Alberta, Prince Albert and Yorkton before returning to the Old Country.

W. H. Boorne, of Boorne & May, Calgary, has been laid up by fever, but is out again.

SAM Livingstone, of Elbow river, Calgary, has 200 acres of wheat sown this spring. Mr. Livingstone was an old timer at Edmonton.

Two excursions of United States land hunters have been arranged by the Canada Homestead Settlement Co. and the Free Homestead Co., to leave Gretna on May 31st and June 21st for Prince Albert and Edmonton. The rate will be low and if land is purchased will be applied on price.

P. TATE, who returned from the Landing on Monday, says that vegetation is not nearly as far advanced as at Edmonton. The Athabasca is much higher than usual. The H. B. Co. steamer Athabasca was successful in navigating Lesser Slave river this spring for the first time, and reached the foot of the lake, but was unable to reach the H. B. post at the head of the lake as the ice had not yet broken up. She returned to the Landing and made another trip to the mouth of Slave river. She is now on her first trip down the Athabasca to Grand Rapids.

REV. Messrs. O. German, Saddle lake, W. W. Adamson, Victoria, and R. B. Steinhauer, Whitefish lake, arrived on Wednesday from Battle river, where they had been attending the district meeting of the Methodist Indian missionary district of Saskatchewan. The meeting was at Battle river Methodist mission, which is conducted by Rev. E. B. Glass, and the session lasted from Friday, May 27th, until Tuesday. There were present: Rev. John McDougall, of Morley, E. R. Steinhauer, of Morley, Rev. John Nelson, Red Deer; Rev. C. E. Somerset, of Bears Hill; Rev. E. B. Glass, Battle river, Rev. O. German, Saddle lake, Rev. W. W. Adamson, Victoria, Rev. R. B. Steinhauer, Whitefish lake. There were also Indian delegates from the several missions represented. A strong resolution was passed calling attention of the Indian department to the necessity of stringent measures to keep intoxicants off the reserves. This was forwarded to the Indian department at Regina and a copy to the Winnipeg Methodist conference. The question of dancing was also discussed and a resolution passed against giving it the sanction of authority.

THE Caroline Gage theatrical troupe arrived on Monday's train, but were unable to produce their play as announced for that evening owing to the hall not being in shape. On Tuesday night the hall was packed to see "Galatea." The performers could not complain of lack of appreciation on the part of their audience, for many of the latter seemed likely to laugh themselves into hysterics at the comic passages of the play. On Wednesday night the hall was again packed to see "The Honeymoon," apparently an adaptation of the "Taming of the Shew." The playing was good and the costumes elegant, but the terrible downpour of rain which greeted the audience as they left the building, skimmed the cream off most of the jokes. To-night the play is "Mr. Barnes of New York," and it will be put on notwithstanding the wet weather. Arrangements have been made with Kelly & Chisholm to have their teams call for such as desire this evening and return them at the close of the performance, at a charge of 25 cents each. As the company was unable to make good their advertised promise of playing on Monday night, and, as no doubt, the bad weather of to-day will cause many to be disappointed, they will remain until next train, on Wednesday, June 9th. In numbers, ability, costumes and scenery, this company will compare favorably with any troupe seen outside the largest cities, and are as good as is likely to be seen at Edmonton for years. Their performance is well worthy of the public patronage.

C. SANDISON leaves on Monday for Battleford, taking down 100 tons of coal, by flatboat, partly for the Indian industrial school and partly on speculation.

A FEATURE of the progress being made by this district this season is the large importation of good stallions, chiefly heavy draught. The following is a partial list: "Royal Oak," imported by R. Crockett; "George the Third," by J. Dupuis; "Lucky Barrister," by Theo. Fulton; "Black Diamond" by Thos. Dewan; "The Ringer" and "The Young Gleaner," imported by W. A. Begg; "Lochaber," imported by R. G. Hardisty. These are fine heavy horses, almost or altogether thoroughbred Clyde, and represent a very heavy investment of capital.

A most welcome down pour of rain commenced last night and is continuing to-day. This is the first rain of consequence during the season, and although crops were not suffering from drouth, they were beginning to lose the headway they made. When first coming through the ground, for lack of continued moisture. The trees too were leafing very slowly, creating the impression that the season was more backward than it really was. The first good rain is the real beginning of summer in this country, and now that this has fallen we are certain of rapid growth. Seeding is almost over, wheat and oats being up and looking well everywhere. A great deal of barley is also sown; what remains is chiefly what will be sown on new breaking by new settlers. This rain is more abundant than usually falls at this season, and ensuing rapid growth from this time forward also ensues, or almost ensues, an early and abundant, and therefore a safe, harvest. The uncertainties of spring is the worst feature of the climate of this district from an agricultural point of view. Spring comes early here. That is the snow goes away in the latter part of March or the first days of April, much earlier than in Manitoba. Then follows a season, favorable from one point of view, but unfavorable from another, upon whose character and duration depends to a great extent the success of the year. The moisture left in the land by the melting of the snow is soon dried out by sunny, windy and sometimes chilly weather. Good seed sown deep on fall plowing as soon as the snow is gone gets the benefit of this winter moisture and comes on well, even if slowly. But seed sown lightly, or after the winter moisture is gone, does not start evenly or quickly. Seeds which have fallen on low damp places, or which have been buried deeply enough to catch the moisture from below start when the rest lies died. After its having started the continuance of dry windy weather stunts its growth and the crops come away unevenly and slowly making a late and therefore a risky harvest. A good snow fall, or a number of them any time in April or early in May—for rain need not be expected so early in the year—is of the greatest benefit to seed sown late or on spring plowing, but such storms cannot be depended upon. Of course the dry weather gives every opportunity to get in the crop in good time and in good shape. But the longer it continues the greater disadvantage it is, and the later the harvest will be. This spring the winter snow left more moisture than usual in the ground, and although the weather was cool during April and May, it did not dry out the ground. Consequently growth has been fairly good, and now that plenty of moisture has come in early June, the crop prospects are all that could be desired.

A NORTHWEST SKETCH.

Rudyard Kipling the novelist recently made a trip across the Northwest on his way to India and noted what he saw. Of crossing the boundary at Gretna he says: "Somewhere in this flatness there is a refreshing jingle of spurs along the cars and a man of the Canadian mounted police swaggers through, with his black fur cap and the yellow tab aside, his well fitting overalls and his better set up back. One wants to shake hands with him because he is clean and does not slouch or spit, trims his hair and walks as a man should. Then a custom house officer wants to know too much about cigars, whiskey and Florida water. Her Majesty the Queen of England and Empress of India has us in her keeping. Nothing has happened to the landscape, and Winnipeg, which is, as it were, a centre of distribution of immigrants, stands up to her knees in the water of the thaw." Of the Plains he says:

For eight and twenty long hours did the bored locomotive trail us through a flat and hairy land, powdered, ribbed, and speckled with snow, small snow that drives like dust shot in the wind—the land of Assiniboia. Now and again, for no obvious reason to the outside mind, there was town. Then the towns gave place to Section So and So; then there were trails of the buffalo, where he once walked in his pride; then there was a mound of white bones supposed to belong to the said buffalo, and then the wilderness took up the tale. Some of it was good ground—very good ground—but the most of it seemed to have fallen by the wayside; and the tedium of it was eternal.

At twilight—an unearthly sort of twilight—there came another curious picture. Thus: A wooden town shut in among low, treeless rolling ground; a calling river that ran unseen between scarped banks; barracks of a detachment of mounted police, a little cemetery where ex-troopers rested, a painfully formal public garden with pebble paths and foot high fir trees, a few lines of railway buildings, white women walking up and down in the bitter cold with their bonnets off; some Indians in red blanket-ing with buffalo horns for sale trailing along the platform; and, not ten yards from the track, a cinnamon bear and a young grizzly standing up with extended arms in their pens begging for food. It was strange beyond anything that this bald telling can suggest; opening a door into a new world. The only commonplace thing about the spot was its name—Medicine Hat—which struck one instantly as the only possible name such a town could carry.

The Mountains. The next morning brought us the Canadian Pacific railway as one reads about it. No pen of man could do justice to the scenery there. The guide books struggle with descriptions adapted for summer reading of rushing cascades, lichen rock, waving pines, and snow-capped mountains, but in April these things are not there. The place is locked up—dead as a frozen corpse. The mountain torrent is a boss of palest emerald ice against the dazzle of the snow; the pine stumps are capped and hooded with gigantic mushrooms of snow; the rocks are overlaid five feet deep, the rocks, the fallen trees, the lichens together, and the dumb, white lips curl up to the track cut in the side of the mountain and grin there fanged with gigantic icicles. You may listen in vain there when the train stops for the least sign of breath or power among the hills. The snow has smothered the rivers, and the great looping trestles run over what might be a lather of suds in a huge wash-tub. The old snow near by is blackened and smirched with the smoke of the locomotive, and the dullness is grateful to aching eyes.

One of the hillsides moved a little in dreaming of the spring and caught a passing freight train. Our cars grind cautiously by, for the wrecking engine has only just come through. The deceased locomotive is standing on its head in soft earth thirty or forty feet down the slide, and two long cars loaded with shingles are dropped carelessly atop of it. It looks so marvelously like a toy train flung aside by a child that one cannot realize what it means till its voice cries: "Anyone killed?" The answer comes back: "No; all jumped," and you will perceive—with a sense of personal insult—that this slovenliness of the mountain is an affair which may touch your own sacred self.

THE SINGLE TAX.

Referring once more to, the question of taxation reform, the BULLETIN finds Mr. Mowat's careful and practical address accompanied by a sheet entitled the Social Reformer, issued by the Single Tax Association of Toronto, in which is contained an address by one Hamlin Garland, entitled "A New Declaration of Rights," which may be taken as voicing the opinions of the single tax association. Why this should accompany Mr. Mowat's address the BULLETIN does not see, as anything which it contains weakens instead of strengthens Mr. Mowat's case. The proposition is to "Abolish all taxes except one; that one tax to be levied on the value of land, excluding all improvements made by the hand of man." This proposition is a plain contradiction of itself, for land in itself is of no value. It only becomes valuable in proportion as it ministers to the necessities of man through the labor of man—in short as it is improved by the hand of man. If the value given to land by the hand of man is to be excluded from taxation, then no taxes can be raised, for the land has no other value than that. Value or wealth is labor, not land. Wealth is only wealth, if it is value for the labor through which the necessities or desires of man may be satisfied. If the land is taxed according to the value which the necessities and labors of man have given it; the tax is upon those necessities and labors, as at present, as in the nature of things any tax must be, for a tax must be upon something of value, and only the means of serving necessity or gratifying desire—that is labor—is of value.

Wealth is a necessity and part of civilization. It is labor stored in such form as to be available in exchange for other labor. It is anything that may be exchanged for labor, and labor may be exchanged for anything that will minister to the necessities or desire of man. Taxation is the appropriation of a portion of the wealth of each individual of the community for the benefit of the whole community, and therefore of each individual in that community. The idea of the present method of direct taxation is that each dollar of wealth in the community shall contribute an equal proportion to the general revenue. In so far as this idea is not carried out the present system is objectionable; with the additional provision that when expenditures specially benefit certain portions of the community, those portions should bear a proportionately increased share of the general burden.

The proposition to confine taxation to one form of wealth, that is land, seems not only unjust, and based on entirely false premises, but suicidal as well. As the chief necessities of life are derived from the cultivation of the land, it is clearly desirable that in any country as much land should be cultivated as possible. If the whole burden of taxation is placed upon the land, instead of being equally divided over every form of wealth, the labor employed in the cultivation of the land is placed at a disadvantage compared with that employed in other industries, and would therefore tend to desert that for other employments. The main source of wealth would therefore be pinched and cramped by the proposed single tax as it is not by the present system, and as it would be still less were the present system more nearly perfected.

LANDS ACT AMENDMENTS.

The following are the most important amendments to the Dominion lands act contained in the amending bill recently introduced by the minister of interior: Clause 4 extends the time for second homesteading from June 2nd, 1887, to June 2nd, 1889. As the law now stands, those who had not complied with the conditions of their entry before June 2nd, 1887, are not entitled to another entry, and it has been contended that it is unfair to those who had homestead entries in 1886, when second homesteading was abolished and who, although they complied with their homestead duties after the date mentioned, were induced to settle in the country on the strength of the second homestead provision. The government had never admitted that this argument has good foundation in law, but the extent to which homesteaders have been availing themselves of the second homestead privileges is so limited and in order that every possible cause of dissatisfaction may be removed, the new clause was proposed. Clause 5 provides facilities for the closing of roads where the statutory road allowance is not suitable for the purposes of a highway. The intention is to give the lieutenant-governor of the Northwest power, with the consent of the governor-in-council, to close up such road allowance and take other land for roads and authorize such disposition of the original as he deems expedient in the public interest.
